Moultrie Lad Is Drowned In Guilford Lake

Lee King, 15, High School Honor Student, Juvenile Granger, Is Victim; Jumps Into Water After Playing Ball

Lee King, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil King of Moultrie, was drowned in Guilford lake about 4:30 p. m. Sunday. Efforts of Salem and Alliance firemen to revive him proved futile.

Coroner Arnold Devon of Columbiana county returned a verdict of "suffocation by water and inability to swim."

The youth, who was an honor student at Minerva High school and would have been a Senior next fall, went to the lake yesterday afternoon with several companions. After playing ball, the boys decided to go swimming. Lee is reported to have run into the water from the shore and dropped off a steep slope into about 25 feet of water.

Baby Killed In Fall

COLUMBUS, June 23.—A three-month-old baby died today after falling from a second-story window of a building on the east side of the city.

The baby, who was named William, was the son of a family living at 1234 E. Main st. The father, James, was seen by police officers near the scene of the fall.

Photo, above, shows, according to official German caption, a German machine gun crew in position on the eastern frontier as the Nazi army invaded Russia.

Paul J. Chaud of Canton was elected president of the association.

U. S. Army officers addressed the gathering, on national defense, pointing out the important role of clubs can play in informing the public of army maneuvers so that motorists can steer clear of the congested highways in those areas.

Buckeye Boys See State's Machinery In Action Today

Salem Lad In Letter Home Presents Inside Picture of American Legion Movement

The 787 citizens of Buckeye Boys' State, including five Salem youths, were in conferences with city, county and state officials at Columbus today to climax their week's experiences in self-government.

Seated beside the men who actually make the wheels go round, the boys hoped to obtain first-hand knowledge of the problems daily confronting government administrators.

One of the Salem enrollees, Wayne J. Steffel, in a letter home, explains that the Buckeye Boys' State is simply an actual training camp to teach its citizens the government functions of the state government of Ohio.

The Boys' State is conducted annually by the American Legion. Its seat of government is the state fairgrounds.

"It was formed in 1935, and in 1936, under the sponsorship of the American Legion of Ohio, the first Buckeye Boys' State was held."

Three States May Join With Hitler Forces

Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia Expected to Throw Off Russian Rule; Germans Penetrate Ten Miles Within Lithuania

The Baltic bulwark which Soviet Russia erected by threats and persuasion against the possibility of just such an attack by Germany as is now raging along her great western frontier appeared today to be crumbling.

Combined military and political blows within and without the three little states—Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia—which the U. S. S. R. took into camp and started fortifying a year ago, threatened to line them up with Adolf Hitler.

According to Berlin advices, based in turn on broadcasts from the Kaunas radio, Lithuanians have risen up, forming a new government pledged to help Germany fight Russia.

CHEER CHURCHILL 'AID RUSSIA' PLAN

But British Shy at Placing Too Much Reliance On Soviet

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 23.—Britain steadfastly cheered today her prime minister's determination to help Soviet Russia fight Germany, but shied at placing too much reliance on the Soviet as a potent brother in arms.

Prime Minister Churchill's ringing declaration yesterday that "we shall give whatever help" we can to Russia and the Russian people, and "any man or state who fights Nazism will have our aid" were seconded warmly by London newspapers.

They advocated a burial of ideological differences between Britain and Communist Russia for the common purpose of crushing Adolf Hitler.

"Russia need have no fear that we shall weaken in our resolve here in Britain because Hitler is now spitting his venom at the east," the News Chronicle declared. "Fate has given ourselves and the Russians a common aim—to smash the Nazis."

The Daily Mail declared "there must be no sitting back. If we do not use the full force in preparation we may perish... by helping Russia we are helping ourselves."

In his 20-minute radio message to the world, Churchill urged that "all our friends and allies" take the same course as Britain in helping the Soviet union fight—an urging taken without question by British as directed, among others, at the United States.

"Russia's danger is our danger," he declared, "and the danger of the United States."

He offered "any technical and economic assistance" within Britain's power and added:

"We shall bomb Germany by day as well as by night in ever-increasing measure, casting upon them month by month a heavier discharge of bombs and making the German people taste and gulp each month a sharper dose of the miseries they have showered upon mankind."

These committee chairmen have been chosen: Registration, Miss Velma McNely; program, Mrs. Ella Taylor; publicity, J. E. Hill; sports, Wilbur Hirst; refreshment, stand, A. J. Hole; road signs, Walter Harsh; grounds, Lawrence Walter; sound system, A. J. Hole; electricity, Reuben Brandt.

Other chairmen are: Richard Lehman, chairman of the business and professional group; James Case, chairman of the industrial group; Rev. J. K. McDivitt, chairman of the ministerial group; G. Charles Fisher of the Kiwanis club; Evan D. Roller of the Rotary club; Mark Klingsmith of the rural group; C. W. Griswold, publicity chairman; and Mrs. R. M. Beck, chairman of the ladies auxiliary and other groups in charge of house to house canvass.

These chairmen with other selected workers, will meet at Miller's Appliance store at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday to form final plans and start the canvass. The churches are supporting the work and announcement was made at all churches Sunday for workers. Those interested are urged to help with the canvass.

From Kaunas, Lithuania, capital of a little republic fronting on Germany which Russia absorbed last June, this announcement was broadcast:

"The Lithuanian people, with all the names at their disposal, will fight for freedom and independence."

The Kaunas radio apparently was in the hands of a coup government. Rearguard attacks on Russian troop emplacements and communications in Lithuania were presaged by an appeal of the new regime to the people to take up arms "in order to assist the German army in liberating Lithuania from the Bolshevik occupiers" and to receive the Germans with open arms.

Kazys Skirpa, former Lithuanian minister to Berlin, became premier of the new government, according to the Kaunas radio, and General Stasys Rastikis, former defense minister, has taken up his old post.

Other chairmen are: Richard Lehman, chairman of the business and professional group; James Case, chairman of the industrial group; Rev. J. K. McDivitt, chairman of the ministerial group; G. Charles Fisher of the Kiwanis club; Evan D. Roller of the Rotary club; Mark Klingsmith of the rural group; C. W. Griswold, publicity chairman; and Mrs. R. M. Beck, chairman of the ladies auxiliary and other groups in charge of house to house canvass.

RUBBER IN RESERVE

Ohio, boasting the world's rubber capital, hears the announcement of rubber rationing thoughtfully. The potential problem of labor displacement is too plain to be ignored.

While it might seem that processing of rubber, no matter for what use, would continue in wartime at an accelerated pace, there are special circumstances surrounding rubber. It is affected not only by simple priority, but by the possibility of a net decrease in the total supply. Announcement of rationing now, with details to come later, is for the purpose of building up stock-pile reserves. Since almost two thirds of all rubber goes into tires, the pinch will have immediate effect on the Akron tire industry. The tentative schedule for the next six months calls for a reduction of approximately 25 percent in present consumption of crude rubber; the effect will be lessened, of course, by the high level of the present rate of consumption.

In theory, labor losing employment through priorities, will be absorbed in the benefiting defense industries. The theory, unfortunately, bears strong resemblance to the classical theory about displacement of manpower by machinery. Ultimately, the manpower is absorbed, but the absorption is an awkward, heartless process offering scant comfort to the workers who must boost it along with their own ingenuity.

HATS OFF TO THE MISS COCHRANS

From pre-Revolutionary days onward, Americans have been inclined to over-estimate their capabilities. Nothing, to them, was impossible.

Every so often, of course, they had what is known in the vernacular as a come-uppance. They had to pull in their horns and back-water. They had to lie low until things blew over. They got caught short. But it didn't discourage them. They continued to believe almost anything was possible, even the demonstrably impossible job of making the world safe for democracy.

With that as an introduction, hats off to Jacqueline Cochran, who has delivered a bomber to Britain with her own hands. Miss Cochran represents one of this country's prides and joys—its capable women. American women drive automobiles almost from childhood. They habitually handle more gadgetry and machinery in the course of one day than most of the soldiers in Germany's mechanized army ever dreamed of before they were put into uniform. Thousands of them fly planes, and thousands more would like to learn. In the most highly mechanized country on earth, American women are an unequalled reservoir of already trained machine tenders.

Delivering a bomber to Britain is admittedly something out of the ordinary for a woman to do, but Americans, perhaps being over-impressed with themselves again, are inclined to wonder what's so extraordinary about it, aside from the fact it's uncommon. There isn't anything an American woman can't do if she must, including tinkering a radio into submission.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SHIP MODELS

Nothing has happened to repeal the axiom that a conqueror must control the sea. Winston Churchill in Great Britain and Franklin D. Roosevelt in the United States, both seafaring men in an academic way, both steeped in the tradition of sea power, are counting on the axiom to disclose Germany's ultimate vulnerability as a would-be conqueror.

The evident explanation for the President's message to congress on the Robin Moor sinking in the South Atlantic is that Mr. Roosevelt wants to familiarize all of his countrymen with the background of his administration's policy concerning the war. It is a policy of sea power—sea power to make American aid available to Great Britain, sea power to preserve the right of self-determination for the governments of the western hemisphere, sea power to keep any coalition of aggressors from closing in on the new world.

The President construes the sinking of the Robin Moor as Germany's notice to the United States that its policy is going to be resisted. Mr. Roosevelt apparently looks upon the incident as the first overt act of belligerency by Germany, and as an attempt to frighten this country into abandoning its intention of doing everything in its power to preserve its own margin of security by insisting on its right to use the seas within its own laws. Thus, the import of the message, as far as Germany is concerned, is that the United States will not change its policy.

There will be no naval appeasement of Nazi Germany. It has undertaken conquest; it must be prepared to handle the consequences on whatever terms may be laid down by the governments it threatens. The United States, a sea power, will use its sea power to maintain its own security. Germany cannot presume the right to dictate who shall use the ocean highways in non-belligerent areas, or in belligerent areas either if this government decides to repeal the neutrality act.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, June 24

THIS DAY may be notable for marked progress, with profit and security attained by breaking away from old methods and inaugurating new, even revolutionary, methods, judging by both lunar and solar aspects. This initiative, with the audacity to cast out routine and traditional ideas and tactics, should come to the attention of influential personages and may bring work in collaboration with these in community or public interest as well as for private advancement and gain. Nevertheless, the ways must be steady and sound rather than impulsive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of definite advancement and progress, with public as well as private gain, largely by employing fresh tactics and daring to abandon the traditional, obsolete and routine. Such bold work may prosper for the community or group welfare and gain the cooperation of powerful persons or institutions. But these command soundness, clear plans, and steadyness rather than reckless, impetuous and too aggressive action. Also there will be need for vigilance as to deception.

A child born on this day should have many qualifications for steady and enduring security if he dare abandon worn out ways and means and employ radical measures for collective or public progress as well as private gain.

In a few weeks the little boys can begin experimenting with that interesting pastime of eating green apples.

It's a great life! If you run the red light, a cop socks you; if you stop, the car behind socks you.

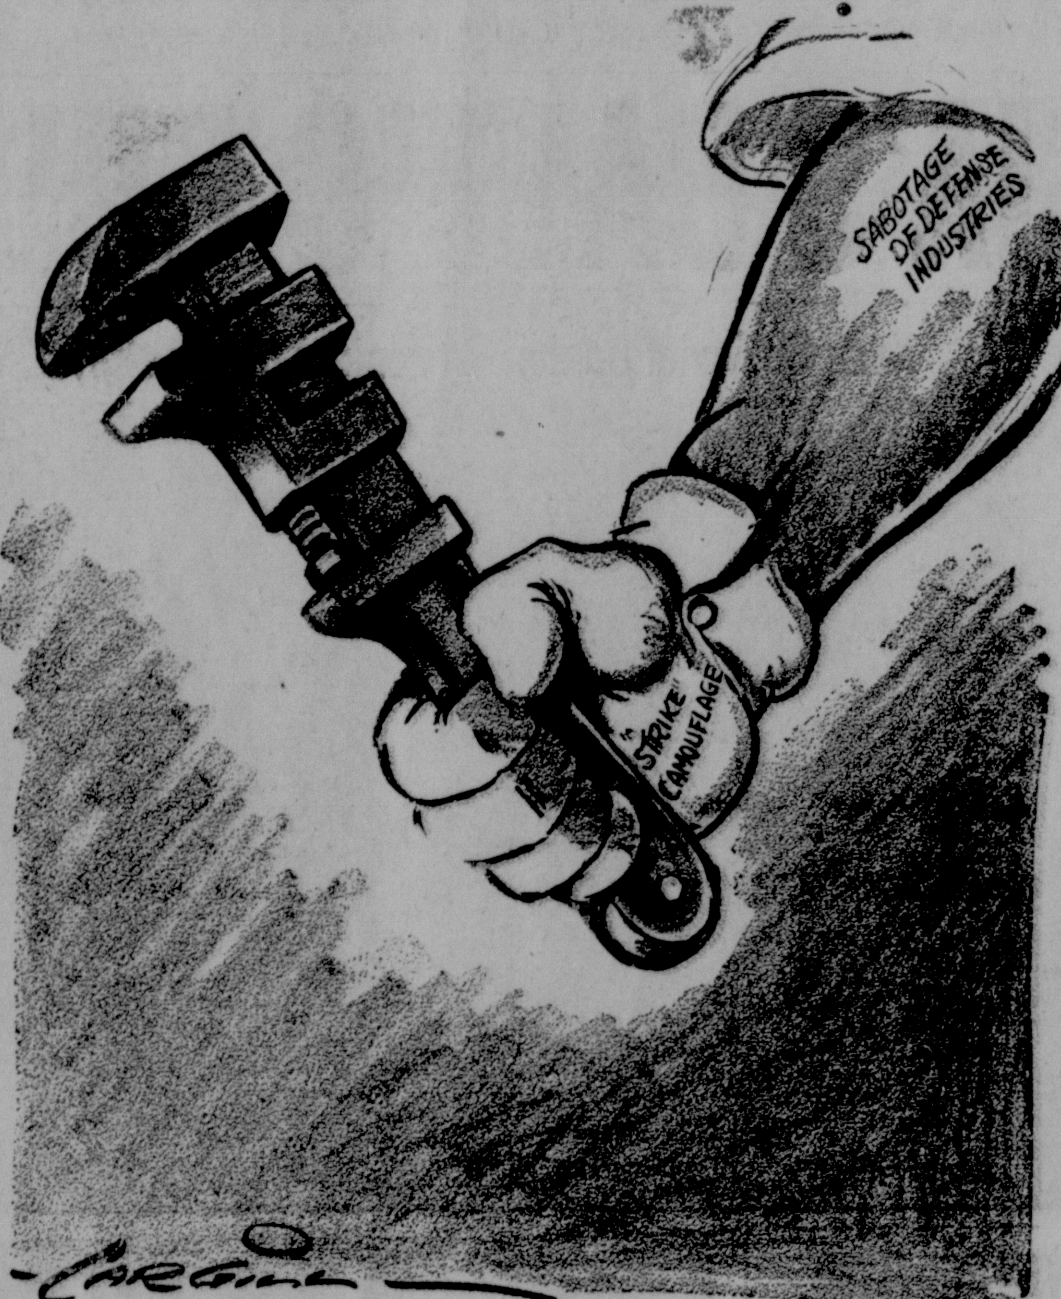

Now comes the glad time of year when nature-loving city dwellers go out and destroy the wild flowers.

A woman is a person who finds what she wants, goes elsewhere to look, and comes back to find it gone. This explains many marriages.

One trouble with the cracker developed by the army is that it has so many vitamins and calories in it that it's too full of pep to be eaten in bed.

The manner in which the sinking of the Robin Moor is being treated by the diplomats on both sides, maybe it will be remembered as the shot that was blurred round the world.

OLD HAND, NEW GLOVE

MEASURING MAN'S INTELLECT

What Test Is Correct, Asks Clendening

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have been much interested in the articles by Mr. Bruce Blavin in the New Republic which indicate a map of the future, or a road to a new world. Some of them very directly affect hygiene and medical science. Mr. Blavin blithely accepts all the most exaggerated reports on the vitamins and believes that by a little chemical hocus-pocus we are going to turn millions of constitutionally inadequate people into bustling, alert and successful citizens.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Another of his ideas is that we should develop more geniuses. He very properly points out that much of the advance of mankind has been achieved by persons of outstanding abilities, who deserve the name of geniuses, and that there are many thousands of individuals of high intelligence walking the streets of our towns and cities today, their abilities unrecognized, and that this material should be utilized. The way he intends to bring this about is to recognize the geniuses by intelligence tests.

Tests of Geniuses

He has a very interesting set of tables to show that the geniuses of history have had their intelligence quotients measured (by studies of their work and biographies). For instance, John Adams and Lincoln had an IQ of 140-145, while Goethe, John Stuart Mill and Newton had IQ's of 190-200.

I don't know exactly what IQ tests were used to make these determinations. The old Binet-Simon test had for adults such problems as the rearrangement of a triangle and the ability of the subject to solve the questions of the president. For the latter, one does not have to go to Goethe or John Stuart Mill. There is a fellow who sits on the mineral oil barrel in Albert Doerschuk's drug store who solves the president's problems faster than you can state them.

In college freshman tests, one question is: "If James had four times as much money as George, he would have $16. How much money has George?" Are we to understand that Goethe could solve that one and one-half times better and faster than Lincoln, and that is the way we are to select our geniuses for the brave, new world?

The Human Element

One does not like, naturally, even by the faintest skepticism to dim the colors of the rainbow of the new dawn, but I had considerable experience with IQ tests in the last army, and in my experience, they do not turn up any geniuses. The men they assigned me as superior-intelligent and particularly fitted for the job to which they were assigned, soon became acutely uninterested in the job and were much more troublesome than some humble individual who liked to work.

Something is left out of the intelligence questions—the real human essence that makes the genius cannot be determined. Many unrecognized geniuses walking our streets, will stay that way on account of some quirk—perhaps lack of ambition—the will to stay obscure. The total human personality escapes the tests and we will, I think, still have to depend on the rough and tumble of trial and error and luck in life.

In the meantime it is well not to neglect the physical in picking men and women for life's work. In a study by the Municipal Civil Service Commission of New York, the top men showed 98 physical and 90 mental percentage. "It is altogether possible," the study states, "to have both brains and brawn. They are not mutually exclusive competency catalogues, for brains are as likely to accompany a highly developed physique as weak and flabby muscles."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. B. Calgary, Alberta—"What is a diet for high blood pressure?" Answer: No special diet is calculated to help high blood pressure very much. The old idea, to eliminate meat and eggs, has been given up, though a moderate restriction of protein foods and emphasis on vegetables and fruits is advised. More important than what you eat is how much. Most blood pressure people are overweight. Small, nourishing meals are therefore the order.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SAN FRANCISCO—California is fast becoming the source of the world's wine supply. The state's wine exports for the first two months of 1941 exceeded those for the entire year of 1939.

Among the U. S. consuls affected by the German order to the U. S. to shut up all consulates in Germany and most of the occupied countries of Europe are the two consuls pictured above. Sidney Redecker, consul at Frankfurt, was accused by the Germans of delivering addresses unfavorable to Germany in the fall of 1939. Alfred W. Killeforth, consul general in Cologne, was charged with using code in an arrangement with the Belgian consul in an attempt to impart alleged German plans of invading the Lowlands in the fall of 1939.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Most welcome was the sound of Kilgour's rap on the door.

"You're all ready for the fray, I see," the Englishman grinned. "Looks as though you were grinding for an exam." He pointed to the neat tables of paper.

"Work sheets," North said and waved his guest to a chair. Kilgour's jovial attitude changed abruptly and he queried, "Something's gone wrong—what is it?"

North said that the English agent commented, "Must remember it. But I say, old chap, it's a rum having a woman to fight—blessed if I like it. Disconcerting as the deuce, they are!"

"I'll say so," North agreed emphatically. "And now, if you don't mind, let's get after this cipher."

Knitting his brow, Kilgour reached for the fatal paper while the American watched him curiously. First he held it to the light.

"No," said North. "No watermarks and not a sign of chemical ink."

"It's going to be hard," the Englishman predicted gloomily. "Short messages like this are devilish."

North's features hardened. "Yes, I know, but we'll have to try everything. Suppose you begin, and I'll offer suggestions from the side lines—you're better at ciphers."

Bending his solid bulk over the table, the English agent seized a sheet of paper and swiftly copied off the rows of letters which appeared as follows:

JDRSJFESL

"One thing's obvious," Kilgour murmured, as though to himself, "it must be an alphabetical cipher of the simpler sort. Facts of the case don't indicate opportunity for elaborate rearrangements between Teodora and our Japanese friend."

"Teodora?"

"I think she was the girl who ruined our evening at Kolna. Josef spoke of her, you said."

North pointed out that the letters of the message were hastily drawn.

"It's probably a makeshift," he suggested. "Now let's see what common ciphers there are which only need an agreed code word for operation."

Kilgour nodded without looking up, then his pencil moved over the paper, and he wrote, "No. 1, The Vigenere system. No. 2, the Delia Porta."

While a warm night breeze, fragrant with the scent of tropical flowers, beat in through the window, he made preliminary attempts with the two methods, but ultimately concluded, "It's no good, my lad. Ten to one it's the old reliable Playfair."

"I was just thinking that. Suppose you try it?"

Accordingly Kilgour split the message up into groups of two letters each:

AD XO QD NF QN FM
MC FZ QS DD ML OZ HL ZR SJ
DR SQ FE SL

Next on his scratch pad he drew a checkerboard containing twenty-five equal squares. At this point he hesitated a little.

"And now the delicate question arises," he remarked to the world at large, "as to what the keyword is. Therefore, Hugh my lad, it becomes important to know whether Kanamura wrote this message, or that unfortunate Teodora."

"I'd say it was the girl," North pronounced after narrowly studying the handwriting.

"Why?"

"Look at the writing—the letters are formed with an Occidental technique," he pointed out. "The Japanese and Chinese generally write with a brush and are very precise in forming their letters—and it carries over into their attempts at Occidental writing. This is written with a pen and is a messy job."

"Correct," agreed Kilgour, who began to follow the prescribed routine of writing down a list of most probable and possible keywords of five, six, and seven letters. For instance, Nadia, Josef, Stefan, Adolf, Munich, Moscow, Rentner, Harbin, Shihli, Oahu, etc.

"Let's try Josef," North suggested, whereupon Kilgour swiftly filled in the name across the top line of his square. Then in the remaining squares wrote the rest of the alphabet in order:

JOSEF
VWXYZ

HC FZ QS DD ML
OZ HL ZR SJ DR
SQ FE SL

Frowning, he bent lower over the paper and, selecting the first two letters, set to work while North puffing steadily at his pipe, looked on.

"A. In the Playfair, one always looks to the right of the true letter, so it gives us 'B' to start with."

"D" was next and yielded the letter "G" to its right. "BG" the translation read.

Major Kilgour vented an irritated grunt, and when the letter "X" of the message yielded "Y" in the translation he profanely commented that Josef could not possibly be the correct keyword. "Too bad we haven't enough of a message to apply the rules of letter frequency. You can always break a Playfair that way if you work long enough."

One by one the Englishman's pencil tested all the obvious keywords; then he asked, "I say, Hugh, can you think of any other words suggested by the actors in our local melodrama?"

North frowned. "Rentner—no, we tried that; Kanamura—no, that's too long. Suddenly he slapped his thigh. "Try Hideyo. That's Kanamura's first name."

HC FZ QS DD ML
SQ FE SL

"A faint smile crept over North's rather haggard countenance; he yawned hugely in saying, "I only hope you're right."

"I suppose," represents some spy's number?" pressed the British agent.

"Probably, but we'd better postpone that subject until tomorrow. I don't believe in hammering a fagged brain too long."

"Right-o; agreed," Kilgour then added, "What's on your mind?" when he saw North seated on the bed, his eyes fixed meditatively on the floor.

"I was thinking about Maui—we've had two references to this island. What do you say we go fishing over there tomorrow morning?"

"Right! I know of a speedboat that'll do forty-five in a pinch—shall I charter her?"

"Yes—we'd better pull out about eight-thirty."

North smothered a yawn and glanced at his wrist watch. "Two-thirty," he grunted, then looked up with an apologetic grin. "Care to go without sleep a while longer?"

Kilgour grimaced, then nodded. "I suppose so, if you need me."

What's up?"

North wearily arose and stripped off his dark blue dressing gown. Talking all the while, he began to pull on a suit of dark gray flannel.

"Just remembered something which may help explain some of the obscure points in that cipher!"

"What?"

"As I told you, when I was hiding in the closet of Nadia Stefan's apartment, her side kick, Josef, let something slip."

"Before he realized you were in the place?"

"Yes. The girl of course, knew I was there from the start, but this Josef started to blurt out something about the Floating Lily or something of the sort. Anyhow, Sister Nadia shut him up sharply."

"Floating Lily? Picturesque, eh, what? And, say—" Kilgour's blue eyes narrowed an instant. "Hold on! That sounds familiar. Ah, I've got it! It's a gin mill down at Satan's Half Acre."

"Dive?"

"Plus! It's a honky-tonk and dance hall, but I've heard there's opium and gambling upstairs. Like the sound of it?"

"Not particularly, but Bruce, my boy, I've a hunch it might pay to look in down there. We haven't made much progress in running down Teodora. Let's go!"

Glummiy, the Englishman assented.

Post-Armament Depression Avoidable, Economists Say

By CHARLES E. HARNER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, June 23—A large cross-section of the nation's economists believes that a "post-armament depression" can be avoided, or at least lessened, by proper planning now by the government, with the collaboration of industry and labor.

This suggestion is an outstanding answer to a survey of economic opinion sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers which asked hundreds of members of the American Economic Association:

"Will there be a post-armament depression in the United States?"

Replies were received from 480 of the experts. They cover a wide range of beliefs.

"It should be clear," pointed out an official of the Manufacturers' Body, "that the name accepts no responsibility for the views expressed by any of the participants in this survey."

All Shades of Thought

"The replies submitted represent all shades of economic thought and represent, we believe, a fair cross-section of the opinions of economists on many of the problems growing out of the defense program."

Some of the experts declined to give categorical opinions concerning the likelihood of a depression.

R. S. Hamilton of Northwestern University said: "Since I am convinced that the armament program is likely to be a factor in the general economic picture for 15 to 30 years and since so many other factors will enter, I do not accept the implications of a 'yes' or 'no' answer."

G. H. Hildebrand, Jr., of Wellesley college: "I expect a permanent crisis with continued high rates of armament expenditure and probably war 'post-crisis' depression is not likely in the immediate future. I do not believe a 'post-armament' period is in the cards—this is a 'return to normal' mentality."

As for methods of combating another depression, some of the hundreds of suggestions included:

Pessimistic View

R. C. Turner of Wayne university said: "There will be powerful forces which will tend to drive us into a depression war, the one from which we have recently emerged. I am equally convinced, however, that our economic system cannot stand another depression as bad as the last. It will collapse first and some sort of dictatorial Socialism will follow it. If the government, by vigorous and aggressive actions—which in themselves are socialistic—can prevent or mitigate this depression, we can weather the storm without economic collapse. In other words, we can escape dictatorial socialism and economic collapse and revolution only by the early application of remedial actions which are in themselves socialistic, especially income and inheritance taxation, government regulation of prices and government influence on savings and spending patterns of individuals."

V. P. Norris of the University of Oregon: "There will not necessarily be a depression. It is not inevitable if the right moves are made. If we have intelligence enough and good will enough to organize a peaceful world, economic life may move ahead without the horrors of years of depression."

A. T. Lauterback of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton

"Before he realized you were in the place?"

"Yes. The girl of course, knew I was there from the start, but this Josef started to blurt out something about the Floating Lily or something of the sort. Anyhow, Sister Nadia shut him up sharply."

"Right! I know of a speedboat that'll do forty-five in a pinch—shall I charter her?"

"Yes—we'd better pull out about eight-thirty."

North smothered a yawn and glanced at his wrist watch. "Two-thirty," he grunted, then looked up with an apologetic grin. "Care to go without sleep a while longer?"

Kilgour grimaced, then nodded. "I suppose so, if you need me."

What's up?"

North wearily arose and stripped off his dark blue dressing gown. Talking all the while, he began to pull on a suit of dark gray flannel.

"Just remembered something which may help explain some of the obscure points in that cipher!"

"What?"

"As I told you, when I was hiding in the closet of Nadia Stefan's apartment, her side kick, Josef, let something slip."

"Before he realized you were in the place?"

"Yes. The girl of course, knew I was there from the start, but this Josef started to blurt out something about the Floating Lily or something of the sort. Anyhow, Sister Nadia shut him up sharply."

"Floating Lily? Picturesque, eh, what? And, say—" Kilgour's blue eyes narrowed an instant. "Hold on! That sounds familiar. Ah, I've got it! It's a gin mill down at Satan's Half Acre."

"Dive?"

"Plus! It's a honky-tonk and dance hall, but I've heard there's opium and gambling upstairs. Like the sound of it?"

"Not particularly, but Bruce, my boy, I've a hunch it might pay to look in down there. We haven't made much progress in running down Teodora. Let's go!"

Glummiy, the Englishman assented.

Theatre Attractions

Tyrone Power has the principal role in "Blood and Sand," technical screen, version of the Ibanez novel, which shows at the State tonight and Tuesday.

The gaily, excitement and romance of the story gains considerably through the use of color photography. The first film based on the story which Rudolph Valentino the screen's greatest idol, lacked the dramatic quality, the color and authenticity of the latest production.

Linda Darnell is seen as the childhood sweetheart of the ragged street boy who becomes the matador hero of Spain, Rita Hayworth plays the fickle beauty for whom he forgets family, reputation and popular acclaim. The cast also includes Nazimova, Laird Cregar, Montague Love, Anthony Quinn, J. Carrol Naish, John Carradine and Lynn Bari.

Firestone Park Records Broken In Weekend Heat

COLUMBIANA, June 23.—All previous records for crowds and receipts were shattered during the weekend at the Firestone park pool and pavilion. More than 2300 used the pool and about 2500 used the pavilion and picnic grounds.

There were five life guards on duty, instead of the usual one or two. They cleared the pool every 20 minutes.

The Columbiana High School band gave a concert at the pool during the afternoon.

Extensive plans for a July 4 fireworks display have been completed. Park Manager C. F. Coppock announced.

RUBBER IS WASTED BY LACK OF CARE

Front Wheel Checkup At E. L. Grate's Will Find The Trouble

As yet, not one has figured out the amount of rubber that is left each day on the street and highways of this country from the tires of rapidly moving automobiles. That it must be a considerable amount, can be guessed from the number of tires which are sold to motorists every year.

Tires are delivering more for the money than ever before. They are made better and prices are lower.

In many instances, however, tires do not deliver a full life of service and the fault is not that of the manufacturer. When tires wear out prematurely, there is in 99 cases out of a hundred, some cause other than a defect in the tire.

Like Grind Stone

In these 99 cases the cause of excessive tire wear can be laid at the door of shimmy and misalignment of wheels. A car traveling at even 30 miles an hour whose front wheels are wobbly or out-of-line has the same effect as though those tires were held against a grind stone. Tires on out-of-line wheels show cuppy spots on the tread, uneven wear on one side of the tread, and are scuffed looking.

Tires wear out soon enough for most of us with the best of cars, but when an out-of-line condition exists, this ordinary wear is increased from 30 to 50 per cent.

It's Time Now to Buy That Lake Placencia Lot

There is no time like the present to acquire that lot at beautiful Lake Placencia which you have always desired. Excellent lots at this well known resort are available now on reasonable terms and with immediate action, you will be able to spend the greater part of the summer there.

Up to date equipment is provided for the swimmers, the photo, center, showing the modern diving platform.

STORAGE AMOUNT IS FIRST FACTOR

Heater May Cause Trouble If Improper Facilities Are Used

Summer is the time when an abundant supply of hot water for bathing as well as other household needs is most appreciated. An important factor in providing the required amount of hot water at all times is the hot water storage tank, says J. R. Stratton, plumbing and heating engineer at 270 S. Broadway.

Much dissatisfaction may be had with an otherwise good hot water heater if the storage tank is not of the correct size or capacity to meet the needs of the household. There is no simple rule of thumb for determining the right size storage tank such as a 30-gallon tank for a family of three and a 50-gallon tank for a family of five.

Besides the size of the family, many other factors must be taken into consideration such as the total number of hot water faucets in the house and the water requirements for the laundry.

The storage tank not only stores the heated water but it also stratifies the incoming cold water and permits hot water to flow through to the bathroom, laundry or the kitchen as required.

Here Are Some Facts

The tank should always be of sufficient size to permit an adequate accumulation of hot water. Sufficient storage eliminates the need for rapid heating, permits lower hot water temperatures and generally gives better satisfaction. High temperature is a primary cause for boiler failure and corrosion.

Hot water storage tanks should be operated at water temperatures not in excess of 160 degrees, which temperature is ample for all domestic uses. Higher temperatures rapidly increase oxygen corrosion, the cause of early rusting. A temperature in excess of 212 degrees is dangerous. Under such temperatures scalding water and steam will be drawn from the faucets with possible serious results.

Protection Is Important

Protection of every hot water or range boiler storage tank against excessive pressure and temperature is of vital importance. On tank installations heated by direct-fired heaters without thermostatic control a fully automatic pressure and temperature relief valve should be installed. Tanks heated by indirect heaters attached to the home heating system should always be protected by a pressure relief valve and a circulation controller with by-pass should be installed to regulate the water temperature. A vacuum valve is recommended in the cold water line to protect the tank should a high vacuum be created either inside or outside of the building.

All safety valves should occasionally be inspected to be sure that they have not corroded, are not sticking, and are in good operating condition.

Where water conditions are corrosive or where there are strong water surges, an extra heavy tank or a double extra heavy tank should be installed. The difference in cost is small as compared with the increased life obtained by using the tank with the heavier walls.

Built Like Bombers

Two spark plugs fire in unison in each cylinder of the Aeropower Nash motors, the only power plants of their type in the industry.

Government specification that twin-ignition motors power all commercial aircraft has focused considerable attention recently on the long-time use of this principle by Nash Motors, which produces the only twin-ignition, valve-in-head motors in the automobile industry.

Both the Nash six and eight-cylinder Aeropower motors have two spark plugs firing in each cylinder, instead of one, exploding the charge of gasoline with double force. This is said to make combustion far more rapid and complete than with single spark plugs. The resulting performance and economy were demonstrated in the Gilmore-Grand Canyon Economy Run early this year, when a Nash Ambassador Six traveled a fast 600 miles on more than 23 miles per gallon of gasoline.

These motors are also said to be distinguished by another unusual construction feature. The intake manifold usually round on the outside of every automobile motor is built inside the Nash motor, where it is declared to be isolated from outside temperature variations. Thorough temperature control makes it possible to adjust the carburetor to the leanest of gas mixtures the year around.

Poker Game Keeps Going

BALTIMORE—Not a man moved from his chair or took his eyes from his cards more than a flickering moment when an auctioneer at a creditors' sale stepped up to a round table in the Baltimore Athletic Club.

"What am I bid for this fine poker table?" he asked the crowd of buyers and kibitzers.

Just to make sure the game would continue, one of the players bought the table. And to make sure the club would continue, two past presidents bought the entire property after bids had been made on individual items.

How to become A SKILLED DRIVER

BRAKES vs. HORN

If all cars stopped IN TIME, there would be no accidents. It is highly important that you learn not to "outdrive" your eyes. You must be able to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. If you can see ahead only 20 feet—and no more—you must be able to stop in that 20 feet. Stopping is important, but what is even more important is being READY to stop. Know what your brakes can do. They vary. Whenever you get into a strange car, test the brakes first.

Some drivers, instead of preparing to stop in time, just blow the horn and hope for good luck. When two such drivers approach a corner, there's bound to be a mess. The skilled driver, when he KNOWS he must stop, STARTS HIS STOPPING EARLY.

CLOTHES SUFFER IN HOT WEATHER

Regular Trips To Paris Cleaners Will Keep Them Fresh

Weather of the weekend type serves to emphasize the value of a dry cleaning service to a community such as that for which the Paris Cleaners have long been noted.

Hot, stifling weather is hard on clothing—that is, if the garments are not properly taken care of. If clothing is neglected, at any time for that matter, but particularly during the hot weather days, perspiration and dirt attack them viciously and before long the clothing is ruined.

But periodic trips to the Paris Dry Cleaners serve to nullify the effect of the attacking forces, keep your clothing fresh and clean and, as can be seen clearly, add much to the life of the garment.

And don't forget, either, that the Paris has the solution for hot weather fur storage, in its brand new storage vaults, at the N. Benton rd. plant.

People of the Salem district are making use of these storage facilities, which combine all modern advantages. The Paris guarantees that fur garments which spend the hot weather months here will be returned to their owners in first class condition.

Feder Declares MacPhail Could Be Mayor of Brooklyn

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was a happy hangover today among the baseball-batty boys and girls of Pa. Knickerbocker's village.

From the shores of the Harlem all the way to the banks of the gorgeous Gowanus in Brooklyn, the folks who go in for the sport of hit-and-run were giving out with hoopla and hurrah over the jobs their heroes did Sunday.

The fans were singing the praises of Joe DiMaggio and company of Yankee stadium for smashing a major league home-run record; they were even thinking of naming a street after not-so-sweet William Terry for the way his Giants knocked off the St. Louis Cardinals in both ends of a doubleheader, and, as for Brooklyn, well Larry, MacPhail could be elected mayor by a landslide and have Leo, the Lip Durocher for his police chief as a reward for the double job the daffiness boys did on Cincinnati.

Two From Lead

The Yanks were two games away from the Cleveland Indians in the American league as a result of the 5-4 beating they handed Detroit's Tigers. But the big thing was that Joe DiMaggio and Red Rolfe, nomered, and this made it 18 straight tilts in which the Bronx Bombers have exploded one or more of their subtle socks, thereby wiping out the record of 17 in a row which the Tigers chalked up as an all-time high only a year ago. What's more, DiMaggio's poke marked the 35th straight contest in which he has hit safely, leaving him only six away from George Sisler's modern major league record.

The Dodgers took two one-run margin victories in Cincinnati, and, since the Cards blew a pair, it left Brooklyn only one game away from the senior loop's top spot. A record Cincinnati crowd of 35,792 fans were on hand.

Giants Clip Cards

Meanwhile, King Carl Hubbell oiled up his left, or business, arm and knocked off the Cards for the Giants, 4-3, in the first encounter in St. Louis, and Young Johnny Wittig threw in a five-hitter to take the nightcap, 3-2.

The Cleveland ball club, otherwise known as Bobby Feller, posted his fifth shutout of the season in whipping the Washington Senators 6-0, with a seven-hit performance, thereby reaching the halfway mark in his campaign to hit the 30-game-winner bullseye this year.

The White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics traded shutouts. Chicago won the first, 14-0, behind Ted Lyons, and the Quaker city set captured the second, 3-0, back of Phil Marchiondi.

Jimmy Foxx's 11th homer led the way to a 7-5 Red Sox victory in the Boston opener, while the St. Louis Browns banged out 13 hits for 12-3 edge in the afterpiece.

Braves Whip

Boston's Braves whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-5 on a two-run unimpeachable rally, and 3-2 on Alva Javery's six-hit hurling.

Pittsburgh downed the Phillies, 4-1, in their opening behind Truett Sewell's steady tossing, and the Phils took the nightcap, 7-4.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, June 23.—(The Special News Service)—Detroit baseball writers apparently knew what was going to happen to Dick Wakefield, the U. of Michigan mauler, even before he accepted that $45,000 bonus to sign with the Tigers. . . . When he heard of the Indians' offer to top any other bid by $5,000, one of them grunted, "Briggs will probably call Bradley's bluff again." . . . Mike Jacobs is the World Telegram's "star of the week" on the ground that he's the world champion promoter.

Orders Is Orders

Harry Craft, the Reds' outfielder, never had any idea of becoming a major leaguer until his football coach at Mississippi college made him take up baseball. . . . Harry, a star back, never had played the game but the coach told him it would be good spring and summer exercise to keep him in condition for football.

People You Know

Around And About

Frankie Parker credits his showing in the National Clay Courts tennis to a "new" flat forehead drive. Seems to us he has a "new" one every season for about six years, but it hasn't shown up at Forest Hills yet. . . . Mike Jacobs won't take any more fights to Washington until they find a loophole in the local law so that he can get a promoter's license.

REDS LOSE TWO IN 25 INNINGS WITH BROOKLYN

Lose Both Games by One-Run Margins; Derringer Loses In 16th

CINCINNATI, June 23.—Idle today, the Cincinnati Reds were recovering from their first double defeat of the season.

In 25 innings against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, they scored in only two frames and lost twice by one-run margins, 2-1 and 3-2, before an all-time record attendance of 35,792.

Paul Derringer's eighth loss in 15 starts was one of the bitterest defeats in the big righthander's 15-year major-league career. He went the entire 16 rounds.

Whitlow Wyatt, out for his 11th victory out of 15, battled Derringer through 10 scoreless innings in which Lonnie Peyer alone reached third base.

Wyatt lined his first homer of the season to left field in the 11th to break the goose-egg deadlock, and in the ensuing excitement swallowed a salt tablet and a mouthwash intended as a gargle. He literally didn't have the stomach to continue, and Hugh Casey came in.

Tied at 1-1

Frank McCormick's double and singles by Ival Goodman and Mike McCormick tied the score at 1-1 where it stayed until Pete Reiser singled, took second then third on Frank McCormick's bad throw of Low Riggs' sacrifice, and scored on Dixie Walker's punt.

Three first-inning singles were the only Redleg hits off Kirby Higbe in the nightcap. They produced two runs.

Billy Herman scored for the Dodgers in the fourth and his second double in the fifth drove in the tying run. Pete Reiser's single brought Herman in with the winning tally and Whitey Moore replaced Johnny Vander Meer who had fanned five Dodgers before he stopped Joe Medwick's liner with his hip in the fourth.

Outfielder Jimmy Rippie, who scored the run which won the world series last fall after driving in the tying marker, was scheduled to report today to the Rochester Red Wings of the International league who acquired him in a straight cash deal Saturday.

SHORTEN SCHOOL BASKETBALL MEET

Ohio High School Finals Will Last But One Day In 1942

CEDAR POINT, June 23.—Ohio's 1942 high school basketball championship finals will be a one-day tournament with only four teams competing in each class, the State High School Athletic association has decided.

Tournament sites have not yet been selected although athletic commissioner H. R. Townsend said the Class B event would be held either at the Ohio State University gymnasium in Columbus or at Wittenberg College in Springfield.

The Class A site is less definite, several desirable arenas being unavailable, Townsend said.

The association decided that third placers in track and field qualifying meets would not be permitted to travel to the finals in Columbus next year.

TRIBE BEGINS 3 AGAINST BOSTON

Harder, Bagby and Feller Will Try To Keep Two-Game Lead

BOSTON, June 23.—Mel Harder, Jim Bagby and Bob Feller will take over the pitching chores for Cleveland in the three-game series against the Red Sox, beginning tomorrow.

The tribe's 6 to 0 shutout of the Washington Nats yesterday kept them two games in the lead over the Yankees, and insured them from losing first place on their current eastern tour unless they drop all three games to Boston.

As the road trip now stands, Cleveland has lost three to the Yankees and two to Washington, against three wins from Philadelphia and one from Washington.

Bob Feller got No. 15 yesterday, his fifth shutout of the season, and helped his teammates in the scoring drive. He allowed seven hits, walked only one, and struck out six. Only three Nats reached second, and one got to third on an error.

The Tribe's leading hitter, Heath, pulled his average up to .380 by getting three out of four, which made 13 hits in the last 19 times at bat.

Battery sets account for about a quarter of current production of radios.

HOGAN, DEMARET SET RECORD IN INVERNESS WIN

Two Texans Clip 42 Off Par To Lead Nearest By Three Strokes

TOLEDO, June 23.—Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan were headed home today after enjoying a profitable weekend of golf in the Inverness Invitational four-ball match.

The two Texans ripped 42 strokes off par in their seven rounds against, as many pairs of the nation's top-flight professionals, finished three points ahead of their nearest rivals, and pocketed $1,000 each in cash—a matter of $250 a day plus expenses which included board and room.

In second place were P. G. A. champion Byron Nelson, the host pro, and his partner, long-hitting Jimmy Thomson, who divided $1,300. Lloyd Mangrum, sporting the only moustache in the tourney, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, were third, garnering $800 each.

All Win Cash

Others in order of the finish: Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, $700; Horton Smith and Lawson Little, $600; Sam Byrd and Johnny Bulla, $500; Dick Metz and Clayton Heafner, $400, and Ralph Guldahl and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, $300.

Hogan, last season's leading money winner, hoisted his 1941 earnings to $10,061 to retain the No. 1 spot within $500 of the figure with which he paced the pros a year ago.

Attract 25,000 People

The 16 stars in their four-day jaunt around the Inverness layout, attracted about 25,000 galleryites at better than $1 each, and the customers watched the stellar shot-makers connect for 314 birdies, six eagles and a hole in one. Even the last place twosome of Harrison and Guldahl was 37 under par for the route, while Mangrum-McSpaden, in third place, had the best sub-par count by knocking 44 strokes off even figures.

The professionals split up $7,000 in prize money, plus all expenses. Mangrum and McSpaden getting $100 extra for the best 18-hole round of 62, and another $200 for the most birdies, 46. Nelson and Thompson tied for the low score of 62 to gain an additional $100.

There were 35 entries in the play which was followed by dinner at the club house at one o'clock. Players were from Poland, Youngstown, Lisbon, East Palestine, Lestonia, and Columbiana. Manager John Ryan announces another tournament to be held July 13.

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—An unidentified motorist parked his car across the street from a church here. While he was in a grocery, the car slipped its brakes and roled across the pavement and into the front door of the church. ## Salem Riders Come From Behind As Defeat Looms; Continue Winning Streak

It had to get good and mad before it could do it, but the Salem polo club showed yesterday that it has both the most powerful offensive and defensive team ever seen here, once it starts to clicking.

And they beat Alliance, 11-9, in the process.

Going into the fifth chukker the short end of a 9-3 score, the Salem riders made four goals in a minute and a half, and boosted it to seven by the end of the chukker to make the score 10-9 in their favor.

Both the fifth and sixth chukkers were scoreless for Alliance. Sheen pounded a ball through the last frame and Salem closed the game at 11-9.

The fifth chukker was an odd mixture of brilliant team play and individual hitting exploits. Single star of the chukker was Jim Pidgeon who walloped through four of the seven tallies made in the frame. Two of the shots were back and angle placements and were beautifully hit.

Tie In Scoring

Pidgeon and Votaw tied for Salem scoring honors, each turning in four goals. Moff, Sheen, and Smith each tallied once. High man of the game, though, was Ray Murphy of Alliance who placed five shots through the uprights.

The victory was Salem's fourth straight.

Off to a listless start, Salem's first tally came on a short drive by Willie Smith in the second chukker.

The ball had been set up by with a solid Pidgeon backshot. Their second goal came on a short drive by Votaw in the third frame to make the score 5-2 at half-time.

Barberton Eagles Trim Salem Nine

Visions of Kansas Before Riders' Eyes

Ted Lawton and Ken Taylor, two boys who are out to see the west from saddles spent yesterday in Ashland where they were visited by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor of the Pine Hollow Riding academy, Albany rd., and Dr. and Mrs. Orville Lawton of Canfield.

The parents reported both boys feeling fine and looking pink-cheeked and healthy. They report that the horses have gotten over their first amazement and fatigue at walking 30 miles a day and are now galloping most of the way.

The boys left for Bucyrus this morning and hope to arrive there tonight despite the 40 mile distance. Once in Bucyrus the boys will contact the manager of the famous Bucyrus horse sales, an old friend of Ken's father, who has practically promised the boys a ride out west in the rear of a horse truck that is due in to Bucyrus for a sale this week-end.

And the truck is bound for Kansas! The boys' fondest dream was to get to Kansas because they can stay on a ranch if they get out there, and then take a big swing out through the west.

Here's today's card, brought back from Ashland by Mr. Taylor:

"Dear Folks, 'We never knew the miles were so long or the sun so hot. The people seem more friendly every day. We expect to reach Bucyrus Monday night. It is 40 miles. The horses are getting tougher and have more life every day."

"We stopped at Miles Firestone's farm at New Pittsburgh for lunch and saw the nicest team of draft horses we ever saw."

"We stayed at Mr. Roberts place in Ashland over the weekend."
